THE VALUE OF COUNTY AGENTS

More and More He is Becoming the Chief Man of Economics.—Is Regularly Called on by the Farmers in All Sorts of Emergencies.

More and more the County Farm Demonstration Agent is becoming the chief man in economics in his community in Oklahoma. Farmers have come to rely on the county agent in many unusual manners. He is consulted as to the live stock and cropping. His advice is asked when it comes to building a new barn or the planning of a new line of fence. The instances of unexpected usefulness of the county agent have been multiplying in the archives of the extension bureau of Oklahoma's Agricultural and Mechanical College until there is a wonderful store of instances of the usefulness and dependability of the county agent on file there.

When the average Oklahoma farmer gets into trouble, the first man he thinks about, usually, is his good friend, the county agent. An unusual use for the county agent was demonstrated recently when H. E. Wilson, county agent in Fyne county, was called on to help get a horse out of a well.

Pulled Horse Out of Well
It was 5 o'clock in the morning when the county agent was aroused out of his slumbers by the telephone call. Mr. Wilson drives an automobile and was soon on the ground. He found a young mare, weighing 1,600 pounds and valued at $500, in a 16-foot well, with only her head above water. Under the directions of the county agent, blocking and cribbing-up were resorted to. Ropes were fastened around the head and body of the animal and her front legs were soon on the ground. Without the aid of a team the mare was pulled out of the well uninjured. Later in the day Mr. Wilson was called on to help care for a colt that had sustained a broken leg.

Intensive farming, as practiced in Oklahoma, is accomplishing results under direction of the county agents. Of course there is none of the folly of the ten or five-acre farm here, but there are many Oklahoma farmers who are making a good living on forty acres of land.

Intensive Farming Practiced
No phase of the demonstration work in Oklahoma has been more successful than the attempt to induce farmers to grow their own food-stuffs and feed crops. T. H. Moore, county agent for Haskell county, points to the record of a tenant farmer who lives near Stigler. He not only produces his own meat, but he sells to his neighbors.

"This farmer has been cultivating the same place for seven years," says the county agent. When he first came to this place there were no hog pastures. He agreed to put up the hog wire if his landlord would let him take it when he moved or pay for it. He put up the fence and set out some Bermuda pasture. The wire and grass have been doing service for seven years. He puts up his own meat and last year sold $50 worth of pork. He grows a large amount of his food and each year lays away a winter's supply. He sells

FRISCO ATTENTION

The present employees in the engine, train and yard service on the Frisco Railroad are being called upon by their Brotherhood Officials for a strike vote. It is hoped that the vote will be in the negative, but the conditions warrant this railroad in making preparations to operate should these men strike.

Applications will, therefore, be received from men competent for positions as Engineers, Conductors, Firemen, Brakemen and Switchmen. Applications should be made to the undersigned, and should give experience with former employers and present address of applicant.

These applications should be sent under personal cover and will be considered confidential, and the applicant, if his application is approved, and his services are required, will be notified with instructions where and to whom he should report.

seed potatoes and seed corn to his neighbors. He has been selecting and improving his seed corn for several years. Best of all, he has a regular income from his poultry of $5 per week. This pays his running expenses. When the tired and weary county agent finds a place like this he knows it is not a mere pipe dream, and he can go forth preaching the doctrine of preparedness with renewed vigor.

Increased Egg Production
By using scientific methods of handling poultry, a farmer near Chocoma, in McIntosh county, greatly increased his egg production, according to County Agent F. L. Rourvelt. Following is the story as told by the county agent:

"One of my demonstrators whom I called upon began his demonstration work the first of the year. At that time he had 88 chickens, no coop for them, and had never paid any attention to feeding and caring for the flock. He was getting at that time six or eight eggs a day. Through following the instructions of the demonstration work, his egg production was increased during the month of January to forty dozen eggs. In the month following this production was doubled. On the first day of May this man had hatched with hens over 200 chicks and had sold over $55 worth of eggs. His hogs were in a marketable condition and were being sold, the proceeds of which were being deposited with the lumber yard man to apply on a lumber bill which is to erect for this man a first-class chicken house. The roosters have been swatted, infertile eggs are being produced and are bringing top prices on the market, and this poor form, which had not been paying expenses for several years, is coming to a profitable basis."

Saved Girl's Life

"I want to tell you what wonderful benefit I have received from the use of Thedford's Black-Draught," writes Mrs. Sylvania Woods, of Clifton Mills, Ky.

"It certainly has no equal for the gripe, bad colds, liver and stomach troubles. I firmly believe Black-Draught saved my little girl's life. When she had the measles, they went in on her, but one good dose of Thedford's Black-Draught made them break out, and she has had no more trouble. I shall never be without in my home." For constipation, indigestion, headache, dizziness, malaria, chills and fever, biliousness, and all similar ailments, Thedford's Black-Draught has proved itself a safe, reliable, gentle and valuable remedy.

If you suffer from any of these complaints, try Black-Draught. It is a medicine of known merit. Seventy-five years of splendid success proves its value. Good for young and old. For sale everywhere. Price 25 cents.
